Acknowledgments

We, the editors, wish to thank the authors of the various chapters in this volume for their expert contributions to our understanding of the personalities and strategic cultures of some of our most dangerous international rivals.

In addition, we are grateful for the support of the Advanced Systems and Concepts Office of the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA/ASCO) for their financial support of the USAF Counterproliferation Center's (CPC) "Adversary Project" that was essential to the production of this book and the conference that preceded it. Colonel Tim Lampe and Dr. Charles Galloway were instrumental in providing this support and we thank them.

Further credit should be given to Mrs. Jo Ann Eddy whose administrative and editorial work supported this project from cradle to grave, from the first grant proposal to the final printing and distribution of this extensive volume. Thanks also is due to the copy editing of Colonel Michael Ritz and the help of others on the CPC staff such as Mrs. Brenda Alexander and MSgt Patrick Ellis.

We also wish to thank Dr. Mitchell Reiss and the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies at the College of William and Mary for their support in hosting the International Rivals Conference where most of these papers were first presented in July 2002 in Williamsburg, Virginia. The editors also are indebted to CPC Associate Director, Richard Estes, who so capably organized that International Rivals Conference and provided such capable support to the CPC Adversary Project.

The authors also appreciate the partnership and help of Colonel Donald Karle, USAF (Retired), Executive Director of the Air University Foundation, for the financial support he and the Foundation gave in making the conference and book a success.

Our appreciation is also extended to Ms. Laurita Denny of Political-Psychological Associates, Bethesda, Maryland, for her assistance in preparing Dr. Post's chapters in this book and in coordinating extensively with the CPC in the editing and production process.

Finally, last but not at all least, the authors thank their spouses, Carolyn Post and Judith Keegan, for their continued love and support and many sacrifices that allowed us the time to do this important work.
